

May 15, 2008

<http://www.publicbroadcasting.net/wrti/arts.artsmain?action=viewArticle&sid=15&id=1278814&pid=208>

Christoph Eschenbach--The Ephrata Cloister--Main Line Art Center Exhibition of Philadelphia Artists

Jim Cotter's previously aired interview with Philadelphia Orchestra Music Director Christoph Eschenbach is revisited.

Jason Peifer takes you to The Ephrata Cloister in Lancaster County, one of America's earliest religious communities. Founded in 1732, the 28-acre site is now a National Historic Landmark.

Susan Lewis looks at Main Line Collects Philadelphia, a new exhibition of works by distinctive Philadelphia artists. The show, featuring works created since 1950 and gathered from local private collections, is now on view at the Main Line Art Center in Haverford.